Public Video Campus are digital advertising media at colleges and universities that reach students in a targeted manner with up-to-date information. The screens are placed at high-traffic touchpoints: in entrance areas, corridors, in front of lecture halls or in the cafeteria, and accompany students in typical waiting situations before lectures begin, during breaks, while eating or on their way across campus.

Operating hours: Times vary depending on the university and location of the screen.

Possible ad duration between 10 seconds and 30 seconds
